A morning paper that told yesterday how indignant Frank Carroll said he felt when he saw Carney gouge and kick McAuliffe needs the information that Mr. Carroll has not nor does he claim to have been out of the city the past week.

Wm. H. Daly, the old-time champion swimmer, who has been in California most of the past ten years, surprised Billy Edwards by greeting him in the Hoffman House last night. He once swam with such men as Capt. Webb, Ernest Von Schoening and Geo. Wade, but now confines himself to teaching. Daly leaves for England to-morrow, where he will first look after the interests of a hollow mast for yachts, which he claims is a great invention, then go to Spain to see the Kilrain-Smith prize fight. He says the new mast is a wonderful thing. A wooden timber is hollowed out and covered with a prepared cording of very little weight. An old catboat of his in San Francisco, which never could win any prize in her class, after being fitted with the new invention outsailed all that came against her with ease. For boats like the Volunteer only the booms and top-masts should be hollow. "Old Bill Clark is having a great time in St. Louis," says Mr. Daly. At a meeting of the National Cross-Country Association a committee of four was appointed to examine and report on some amendments to the constitution and bylaws by Dec. 12. As Mr. Hughes has notified the members of his intention to withdraw from the Presidency of this organization, it is probable that Mr. F. J. Kilpatrick, a member of the Suburban Harriers and a wellknown New York Athletic Club man, will be elected to fill the vacancy.

The Nassau Athletic Club has been granted permission by the National Association of Amateur Athletes to give the amateur championships boxing and wrestling competitions this year. This club will hold these interesting events in Brooklyn on or about Jan. 20. There will be prizes for four weights—feather, light, middle and heavy weight.

Mr. Harry Buermyer has commenced exercising in the gymnasium of the New York Athletic Club, presumably for a bout with Mr. W. J. M. Barry.

Messrs. Oliver Sumner Teal and Elsden A. Morris will represent the Essex County Toboggan Club; Messrs. F. W. J. Janssen and Johnny Edwards the Staten Island Athletic Club, while Messrs. W. J. Swan and Walton Storm will do their best for the Manhattan Athletic Club's interests in the arrangement made by these three clubs to give some ment made by these three clubs to give some mammoth minstrel entertainments. The dates have just been decided upon. Orange, N. J., will be the scene of the first one on Dec. 15, and the second one will be held in the German Club's rooms, on Staten Island, on Dec. 17. The third will be held at the Metropolitan Opera-House, in this city, on Dec. 20. Each performance will be essentially different. The Stock Exchange Glee Club and a glee club composed of twenty-eight members of the Seventh Regiment will assist, as will a squad of thirty from Company A. of the Seventh, in a fancy drill. Original burlesque, lawn-tennis matches, besides quartets, prestidigations, songs, dances, stump speeches, banjo sextet by C. M. Johnson, Ruby Brooks, Harry Janssen, Carroll Brothers and W. C. Rowland will be given at each performance Harry Janssen, Carroll Brothers and W. C. Rowland will be given at each performance and the wind-up will be an athletic tableau in which 150 of the crack amateur athletes of the world will appear in full costume.

by fire at a little after 50 clock this morning. The family escaped with their lives, leaving everything behind. The loss on furniture is $10,000, and on the house $15,000, partly issured. The origin of the fire was from a defective fine, a new furnace having just been put in.

The tannery and buildings belonging to Frederick Kraft, as Bronxville, near the Harlem Hallroad track, took fire at about 50 clock this morning. They were entirely consumed, together with a quantity of valuable tanned skins for gloves and plane hammers. The loss will probably reach $250,000, partly insured. The cause of the fire is not known.

Saspleious of Italian Passengers. The Antwerp steamship Wassland, which arrived lass night, was detained at Quarantine this morning because there were a number of Italians on beard, some of whom may have come overland from cholera districts. The vessel will probably be up this afternoon.

POLICEMAN POWERS OVERSLEPT.

That is His Reason for not Appearing Against Engan in Court.

Franklin Powers, the policeman, of the Eighth Precinct Police Station, who failed to appear in the Jefferson Market Court yesterday to press the charge against Joseph Eagan, of No. 48 Grove street, for a violation of the Excise law, was found this morning by a WORLD reporter.

As he walked along the street he said:

As he walked along the street he said:

"You see, Thursday was my night off. In the early part of the evening I went to the theatre with a young lady to whom I am engaged to be married. I accompanied her home, and after leaving her house walked around a little. As I passed 48 Grove street I saw the side door wide open and people passing out and in. I went up and told Eagan that I was an officer and showed him my shield.
He refused to come with me, but finally he did.

WANDERED INTO THE RIVER.

Fate of a Lady in Brooklyn Who Escaped the Vigilance of Friends.

Mrs. Rosa Molheim, a middle-aged lady who was stopping with friends at 589 Bedford avenue, Brooklyn, and who was suffering from aberration of mind, slipped out of the house at 8 o'clock this morning. When her absence was discovered the police were notified.

An hour later a message was received at Police Headquarters saying that the body of a woman, believed to be Mrs. Molheim, had been found floating in the river at the foot of Rodney street. The friends of the lady identified the body and had it removed to their home.

CHIEF CAMPBELL LAUGHS.

There's Not the Slightest Ground for Saying Campbell is a Bomb-Thrower.

The report published in the Sun this morning that Charles J. Campbell, who attempted to extort money from the President of the Eric Railroad Com-pany, was suspected of being the man who sent the bomb to the Wechsler house, is laughed at by Chief Campbell of the Brook-lyn police force, In conversation with a World reporter this proprinc he said:

morning, he said:
"There is about as much reason to believe that that man threw the bomb as there is that you did."
When further asked if he believed the man was in any way connected with the case he replied:

"I don't believe he threw it. Because the man has a number of charges against him some one has concluded he must have thrown the bomb."

officers last night raided a gambling-house at 294 Bowery, and arrested the proprietor, George Floyd, alias Joan Doe, of 314 East Thirteenth street, and seven other men, none of whom, however, were playing. A few poker chips were also found. The arrest was made on the compaint of Harry E. Sands, a carman, of 205 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, who said that he went into the place on Nov. 10 and lost $33 in playing poker. Floyd and the others were arraigned in the Easex Market Police Court this morning. Sands teentified Floyd as the man who raked in his money. The seven men arrested were discharged and Floyd was held under $1,000 bail for trial.

Brooks, the Hoffman House porter, and he was called upon to join the party and be weighed.

Haddock was the first to step upon the scales. The 200-weight was put on. The beam did not move. Another 100 pounds was added. Still the beam remained immovable. Then the weight was moved along until a balance was secured at 308%.

The Judge stepped from the scales with a triumphant air which soon vanished, however, when Brooks, the porter, ascended the platform and the beam flew up as though it were seeking the roof.

"Three hundred and eighty-five pounds," declared the official weigher.
It was terrible to have a little man, only 5 feet 7 inches in height, outweigh him, but the Judge brightened up as he remembered that the bet depended upon the weight of Coxe. The latter might weigh less and have to pay for the refreshments.

Yale's "haby" placed his feet upon the scales and after everybody was satisfied that his work and the record was announced—310.

The challenger was the feather-weight of the three, but did not like to give up. He insisted that Coxe be weighed over again, but as soon as the youthful Goliath placed a foot upon the platform he exclaimed: "Hold on. That's enough. I give in. I was too hasty. I didn't see those feet when I challenged him."

The merry party adjourned to the bar and the platform he exclaimed: "Hold on. The matter of the stock was an entire absence of excitement.

HENRY GALWAY DISCHARGED.

The Man Who Tried to Jump from the Bridge Finds Sympathy in Court.

Henry Galway, the man who was made desperate by poverty and the sight of the sufferings of his wife and six children, and who attempted to end his life by jumping from the bridge on Thursday, was arraigned in Justice Walsh's court, in Brooklyn, this morning.

His wife and numerous friends were present to give testimony as to the causes of Galway's act, but their services were not needed. Justice Walsh, after giving Galway a quiet little lecture discharged him. At the same time an envelope containing $10, which some person had left with Justice Walsh, was handed to the wife.

As the couple left the court-room tears welled into their eyes.

The Emigration Commission's Money.

Areport was put in circulation this morning that Secretary Fairchild had settled his controversy with the Commissioners of Emigration versy with the Commissioners of Emigration in regard to paying the Emigrant Commission the amount of money due it up to the present date. That any agreement had been reacted was not known at Castle Garden, and no credence was placed in the rumor. Supt. Jackson, who is the custodian of the fonds of the Commission, when asked this morning by a Womin Preporter if the report was true, said: "I have heard nothing about!". Were such the case I am certain that the information would have been conveyed to me before this. We have received no communication from Mr. Fairchild, and I do not think that there is any truth in the rumor."

To a World reporter she said that Johnny had been unwell for some time prior to the assault, but had complained much more since. His side, which was discolored by some blow, troubled him considerably. The boy did not know whether the hurt in his side was occasioned by his being violently thrown to the ground or by a kick or blow received while he was down.

in failing into the hands of the police. A few days ago a complaint was made at the Fourth District Station that a gang of boys armed with revolvers were holding up and robbing other boys near the water-tower. One of the victims was located and informed the police that he had been held up at the points of several revolvers and relieved of 15 c-hts. Sanday afternoon Officer Pohl was instructed to keep a lookout for the young robbers and arrest them if possible. He visited the scene of their operations and concealed himself and waited patiently for developments.

He had not been there long before he witnessed a sight which really astonished him. Shortly before 4 o'clock he saw three boys, ranzing in ages from twelve to sixteen years, walking in the direction of the water-tower. When within a few hundred feet of the tower five lads between fourteen and eighteen years of age surrounded the boys and, drawing revolvers, ordered them to tarow up their hands and deliver, coupling the order with a threat that they would get aurt if they did not obey promptly. Each of the three boys wore a waten and chain, and in avery few minutes they passed into the hands of the young robbers. They then searched their victims, securing about $1.50 m nickles and dimes from the three. At that moment Officer Pohl dashed out of his place of conceament and ran after the robbers. They took to treir heels, dropping their revolvers and plunder in their efforts to get away.

Two of the boys were caught and taken to the Fourth District Station, where they gave their names as Jack Harvey and George Trinkle, aged fitteen and sixteen years, respectively. They were badly frichtened and told the police who their companions were. Officer Pohl knew them, however, and started out to arrest the others. He arrested Charles Kratz, a lad of sixteen years, and locked him up with his companions. He says that not only in France, Germany and those other countries in which the tide of travel runs so strong, but in Spain, Austria, Greece, and even in Northern Africa, he journeyed comfortably, using "no language but English." No doubt the ubiquitous Yankee has much to do with this agreeable condition of affairs. He is not only the greatest, but the mst liberal of tourists, and the railroad companies, hotel proprietors and shop-keepers are all alike eager to secure what they subserviently call his patronage. To that end they employ in their stations, inns and shops English-speaking clerks, so that one need be at but little disadvantage because of ignorance of foreign tongu s. It was Henry James, we think, who designated the Rue de is Pakx of Paris as a street on which French was sometimes heard spoken. We doubt if there is a single shopkeeper on that dazzling highway who cannot speak English as readily as his comparisot of Broadway and Chestaut street. But it is rather more than likely that had President Eliot gone to some of the quaint, quiet, picturesque towns of Europe, even of France, Germany, Italy and Switzerland, he would have found active use for his a nowledge of modern contine stal languages. Along the great highways of European travel English a common enough, but away from them the tourist who speaks in all tongues will be the wiser and happier man.

Muster Rolls of the War.

(From a Washington Letter.)
Cockrell, the tall Senator from Missouri, has gone into business as the preserver of the war muste rolls. In swooping around the War Department the other day he came upon the room where are stored the muster rolls of all the regiments and battilions in our civit war, and was astonneded to find that they were so badly worn out that they were dropping to pleces. No less than six rolls on an average of every Union company in the war are stored here—not far, I suppose, from a million rolls in all. They are in constant requisition by Gen. Black's clerks who are searching for facts on which to decide a pension claim, and they have been so constantly handled that they are dropping apart where they have been folded, and are in part already undecipherable. They are in a worse condition than the original rolls of the Revolution, and threaten to disappear altogether. In this extremity Senator Cockrell has suggested that a tough and transparent tissue paper be pasted over all the rolls for the purpose of protecting them without obscuring the text. Gen. Drom has approved the measure, and the great work has already been begon. It will take months to accomplish it, and perhaps years, for the clerks of the War Department are notoriou-ly the slowest and least efficient of any in the service. rolls. ### A Spook at the Door.

[From the Savannah Neues.] At Camden, S. C., John S. Meroney has a very unpleasant visitor at his house, in the shape of a spiri . For about a week the brass-knocker on his front door has been having a "gala week" of its front door has been having a "gala week" of its own. It has been seen to raise up and come down with a loud rap, and its behavior cannot be explained. The knocker is between 75 and 160 years old. It came off the old Salmond house, which used to be in the lower part of town, but was bought and removed by Mr. Meronev. The knocker was afterwards put on his front door. It is of thin brass and is screwed on a thick piece of board, while the boits with concealed heads go through the panel of the door to hold it in place. There is no other connection between the knocker and anything at all. The knocking is seen and heard with the door in any position. While neither Mr. Meroney nor his wife believe in spirits nor seem to be supersuitous, the affair worries them, to say the least. Crowds of curi-us people are around the door day and night, and many of them testify to the strange movements of the knocker.

Terrible Fight with a Bear.

[From the Pittsburg Dispatch.]

A terrible fight with a bear is reported from Nicholas County, W. Va. Nicholas Fleming, a veieran hunier, who has nine bearskins as trophies of this winer's sport, while following a trail came upon a she bear, weighing 250 pounds. The animal was upon him in an instant, and feiling him to the ground with its paw, the infuriated beast began savagely bitting his ieg and tearing off his clothes. Fleming attempted to turn over, when the bear, catching him between the shoulders, tore his bo iy from his neck to his hips most horribly, several gashes half an inch deep being found the entire length. Having stripped off all his clothing, the salmal was about to devour him when the hunter's dogs attracted her attention. Fleming grasped his gun and shot the animal dead. He was unable to move and had to be carried home. Nicholas County, W. Va. Nicholas Fleming, a

WEST NEWBURT, Mass.

I have been subject to nervous prestration and numbness in my limbs for years. I suffered from paralysis of the scular muscles, and was double-sighted for fifteen weeks. The morning sent for a bottle of Dr. Greene's Nervars Nerve Tonic I had not closed my eyes to sleep for three nights. I was losing the use of my limbs, and the least exertion tired me. I took one bottle of Dr. Greene's Nervars Nerve Tonic, and the effect was wonderful. Yes, in less than one week it seemed to impart renewed life and I could breathe better. I was encouraged and sent for more of the remedy, and after taking three bottles the numbness disappeared. I persevered in using it and I found as I grew stronger my eyes improved gradually, until now they are well. I can be proved gradually, and I have every reason to think that Dr. Greene's Nervurs Nerve Tonic saved my life. I advise very nervous person to give it a trick.

One of the Most Marvellous Cures on Record.

I cannot say enough in praise of the wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura Nerve Tonic. I have been sick for over a year with an attack of sciatios. I commenced taking Dr. Greene's Nervura Nerve Tonic medicine, and before taking up the second bottle there were longer intervals between the attacks of acute pain, and I would sleep nearly an hour, where before for eleven months I would not alsep over ton or fifteen minutes at any one time, unless I was under the influence of opium. I now go to sleep by 10 o'clock and sleep comfortably all night. I aim now able to sit up two hours at a time, and am gaining in atrongth every day, and it is owing to this good medicine. I wish I could tell overy suffering one about its curetive powers. I will answer letters in regard to it, or see any one who would like to inquire about it.

25 Mil. 8 st., Boston, Mass.

I have suffered from nervous exhaustion and disturbed sleep for a number of years, partly in consequence of an excessive use of tobacco. To say I have used opiates hardly expresses the fulness of the treatment employed to overcome this terrible complaint. My physician prescribed Dr. Greene's Nervura Nerve Tonic. Justice forces me to acknowledge that after taking two bottles of the Tonic I find myself so greatly improved that I feel like a new man, refreshed and able to do an immense amount of arduous mental labor.

Dr. Greene is entitled to the thanks of all overworked and nervous people for placing this wonderful medicine within their reach. Yours, truly.

Wonderful Cure of Siceplessness and Excessive Nervous Prostration.

19 AFFLECK ST., HABTFORD, Conn.

I have been troubled for the past ten years with what the doctors call nervous debility and disturbed sleep, or wakefulness at night. Have used a great many different kinds of medicines, but could not seem to get over my troubles. I recently consulted a celebrated specialist on nervous diseases, and he told me to take Dr. Greene's Norrurs Kerre Tonic for my nervousness. The results are most gratifying. I am sleeping as quietly as an infant and feel that I have a new lesse of life. For nervousness and sleeplessness I have never found anything like it.

A Little Learning is a Dangerous Thing.

[Hong Kong Letter to the Baltimore American.] As the Chinese language is so difficut to learn no foreigner pretends to speak it, except, of course, the missionaries, but everybody says, "Chin-chin" (how do you do)? "Chop-chop" (horry up), and "Man-man" (stop). A little learning is, however, is a dangerous thing, as was exemplified in the case of my friend, Miss Jackson, who, the day of ser arrival among the heathen, look a chair with four bearers to see the sights. The coolies were instructed by the interpreter at the hotel before she set out on this John Giptin "xpedition" (as it proved to be), to take her through the principal streets and bring her back in three hours. All went well for some little time, the coolies trotted peacefully along the Queen's road—my friend enjoying the novel and fascinating motion of the chair, and taking in the strange sights. Finally a curio shop attracted her att nilon, and wishing to stop, she rapped sharply on the side of the chair and said "Chop-chop." To her great surprise, the coolies quickened their pace and pranced gaily on. "Chop-chop," The said again, with rather more energy than before, and faster the bearers trotted. She now became thoroughly alarmed, and, imagining the coolies were going to take her to some out-of-the-way place and slay her, she took out her purse, and, holding up a handful of Mexicans, said imploringly, while the tears stared to her eyes, "Chop-chop," "Chop-chop," At this the bearers broke into a run, and up hill and down date, along the Queen's road, through the C.inese quarter of the town, along the Bund, everywhere; in fact, these callous, breathless coolies tore, be ring t eir helpless victums gall intly aloft, and finally brought up at the ho'el on a d ad run exactly on the stroke of the hour, their eyes starting from their head, the perspiration streaming from every pour, their pigtails stan ing out straight echind, but "sugtained and soothed by an unfailering trust" that the handful of Mexicans would be theirs. Poor Miss Jackson was clinging des erately to the sides of her chair, the incessant and rapid joiting had knocked her bounct over one eye, her hair streamed down her back, blank despair was depicted on every feature, while between her sobe she still continued to ejaculate faintly at intervals, "Choplearning is, however, is a dangerous thing, as was exemplified in the case of my friend, Miss Jack-

Queer Hospitality in Egypt. '

[Correspondence Pittsburg Dispatch.]
In the houses, when the husband is to enter with a man not a relation, he warns the women to conceni themselves by diapping his hands, and on opening the door shouts to them, tf in sight, to veil themselves. If a guest arrives in the abi veil themselves. If a guest arrives in the absence of the husband, he is entertained in the name of the wife, though she may not see him. While the man is saying his morning prayers the wire makes his coffee, fills his pipe, gives it to him when his devotions are ended, and turns the water over his hands before he eats. The Leventine women are indoient, and early become very fat; many in Cauro and Alexandria have never seen the city gates of the port. They are too reputed to indulge in serious intrigues. They have not the faith in destiny which enervates the best Moslems, but are courageous in danger. They are not frank in their hatreds or dislikes. They associate with the Copts far more than with Moslems, and are over fond of festivities.
